Your child’s class teacher will regularly inform you of what colour books your child is able to access. If your child is not reading at the required level we need to look at all of the factors which are contributing to this. It is important that children are supported to learn their sounds at home to underpin what is taught in school and it is vital that reading at home is part of your daily routine. If there is a barrier to progress identified, your child may receive 1:1 intervention in school to help support them with the different stages of reading.
